The Carter household has been getting used to being back at school after half term and also the darker, wetter evenings which mean that sadly less tennis has been played...however the girls have made up for this by playing wii tennis and super mario. This weekend they are having a hallowe'en Guide camp (at home) via zoom with lots of activities throughout the days from crafts to baking, pumpkin carving and online games with the other guides they even have a midnight snacks zoom scheduled in.....not sure i will be awake for that one though might have to leave them too it!

As I write today we are still awaiting the latest announcement from the government on new lockdown restrictions but whatever the outcome we are sending lots of love, prayers and thoughts to you all and looking forward to when we can all meet and sing together again

Lots of love, stay safe and well
Sarah and the family xxxx
