I can't quite believe its mid May already and I've lost count of the weeks we've been doing Sunday's in this way! We are still doing and keeping well, we have settled on needle felting as our craft of choice - even ordering more supplies - and have enjoyed having more time outdoors this last few days. We are lucky to live directly opposite a park so making use of that whenever the sun shines and social distancing is possible. Gardeners among you who have been advising us will be happy to know that our peas have survived the pigeons and are now quite healthy, thank you for your help, however our cucumbers were less lucky and there is now a very well fed slug somewhere in our garden!!!! We have seen hedgehogs in our garden for the first time in years though so we refuse to put down pellets and will happily replace any casualties instead. (animal friendly tips to keep them at bay welcomed!)

As always, sending love and best wishes to you all.

Sarah and all the family xxxx
