A week of dramatic weather here, I think for everyone, ranging from incredibly hot to thunder and lightening! Phoebe has completed her first full week back at school with only two to go until the Summer break and Emily is still keeping me company at home as we both do home-school and work from our kitchen. The girls have been very industrious setting up an online 'bake along' where they and their friends make cakes together via zoom/instagram (recipe shared in advance and results tasted by the families and today we ventured out to Market Bosworth and enjoyed a socially distanced walk around the park - our first 'trip' since lockdown.

Thinking of you all
Love Sarah and family xxxx
