It's half term for our girls this coming week and some time off from work for Tom and I which we are very much looking forward to. I have finally made a start on making my curtains (with a lot of guidance from mum!) and the girls are busy doing homework which is quite a lot due to the amount of time they are trying to make up from earlier in the year. They are also sewing a halloween costume for our cat.....not too sure he will allow them to dress him in it though!

Thinking of you all as always
Love from Sarah and Family xxxx
